

I Tyler Woodward strongly support ISPs being classified as title II as the law currently exists. It is critical that the government continues to require these companies to uphold net neutrality, because if the government does not do this, ISPs will not uphold it.